CONDITIONS IN JAPAN. A disputch from Sin Francisco says:

Japan can fight no nation for fifteen years. There is no more probability of the mikado making war on the United States than there is of the sultan of Zulu leading an expendition against Greet Britain. The "war scare" dethe California legislature could only be the result of misinformation. With the appalling debt entailed by the recent Russian war a burdensome tax carried by every industry and every toller, the Japanese are suffering from financial a remia that absolutely forbids war ex-cept at the price of risking the existence of the empire. Every military and naval expert in the far east knows that the Anglo-Japa-ness agreement alone prevents Russia from taking advanage of Japans condition to retrieve her lost prestige.

There is not a single citizen of the empire who is not carrying a crushing burden of taxation.

A piciable example of the desperate straits of the government is found in the heavy taxing of the unfortunate women denizens of the Yoto-Warris, the government licensed resorts found in Japanese cities. The majority of the noforunates are the widows of Japanese soldiers killed in the Russian war, who instead of being pensioned were licensed to lead lives of chame.

Nearly every sen obtained by the women is mulcted from them by the government, which is desperately at-tempting to maintain a perfect military establishment.

It is the concensus of opinion of those who have studied the financial crisis facing Japan, with the knowledge that the financial markets of the world have refused to make any additional leans, that Japan at present could not conduct a war lasting three mooths.

The most optimistic estimates set the date at which the empire could eafely engage in a conflict with a first class ower at fitteen years.

The Japanese first, except for the autumn review, is not engaging in any manocuvers owing to the exhausted und, and to save the cost of cost all ships are lighted with all lamps. Nearly overs : flicial expects the expiration of he JapaneserAnglo agreement will be ollowed by another struggle with Russia, and the most desperate means will be employed to prepare the nation for the

DIED IN POVERTY.

Smith Edward Lane, who was once one of the wits of the Century and Union Clubs, in New York, an after-dinner speaker at the hanquets of the Soos of the American Revolution and the St. Nicholas Societies, and in the adminis-tration of Mayor Smith Ely, park commissioner of the city, died slone in his room in the rear of a tenement at 227 west Sixty-eighth street, New York, yesterdsy morning. Though there was no fire in his room and the shelves of his cupboard contained nothing but mpty boxes and jars that had once contsined food, the court suit of silk and ilk at ckings that Mr. Lane had worn a levee of King Edward in 1903 was hanging in his close, together with two uits of evening clothes and the state sword that he had carried at his side hen presented to royalty.

One of the two friends that Mr. Lane had left in the world, who came to take charge of his effects after his death had esen reported to the coroner's office, een with him to the end, and that the ne-time leader in Tammany, lawyer and clubman had been living the life of a recluse for 10 years past where none could see his shame in poverty.
